Participant Information Sheet – SURG

The AaRK project

(Academic award and Recontextualising/Re-using Knowledge)

You are being invited to take part in a research study about whether level of academic award makes a difference to how registered nurses organise, delegate and supervise care at the University of Surrey and University of Salford. Before you decide whether to participate it is important that you understand why the research is being done and what it will involve. Please take time to read the following information carefully. If there is anything that is not clear, or if you would like more information please get in touch with the research team (contact details at the end of this information sheet).

Researchers: Dr Helen Allan, Professor Martin Johnson, Professor Karen Evans, Dr Khim Horton and Ms Carin Magnusson.

What is the purpose of this project?

This study will investigate the effects of university award on registered nurses' ability to use knowledge learnt in university to allow them to organise, delegate and supervise care on the wards when working with healthcare assistants

Why have I been chosen?

You are being asked whether you would like to participate in this study because you are a patient/service user who has had experience of care in older care or general medicine. Your views will be highly valued.

Do I have to take part?

It is up to you to decide whether or not to take part. If you do decide to take part you would be given this information sheet to keep and be asked to sign a consent form. If you decide to take part you are free to withdraw at any time and without giving a reason.

What will taking part involve?

If you decided to participate, you would be asked to participate in a service user meeting (reference group) which would last approximately 60-90 minutes. This is not a research interview. Approximately nine other patients or relatives would be invited to the same meeting. The meeting would be arranged on a date and time convenient to you and the others who agree to participate. The purpose of the meeting is to find out about your experiences of bedside care and your thoughts on how nurses organise, delegate and supervise care undertaken by HCAs. It will be audio tape-recorded and notes taken by one of the researchers. The tapes and notes will be stored in a safe place and only the research team will have access to them. The tapes will be destroyed in accordance with University regulations and/or if you should decide to withdraw from the study. You will not be identified by name or any other person specific details. The interview will be undertaken by Ms Carin Magnusson and/or Dr Helen Allan.

What are the possible benefits of taking part?

There will probably be no direct benefit to you. Indirectly, as this study will contribute to the profession's understanding about how to educate nurses so that care can be safely delivered and supervised. You may benefit in the future from changes to the education of nurses.

What are the possible disadvantages or risks to taking part?

There are no foreseen disadvantages or risks to taking part. However, if as a result of the interview, issues are raised for you which you wish to discuss further, the researchers would suggest contact could be made with trades union representatives, human resources departments or counseling support.

In the unlikely event that you are harmed by taking part in this research project, there are no special compensation arrangements. If you are harmed due to someone's negligence, then you may have grounds for a legal action but you may have to pay for it.

If you wish to make a complaint or have any concerns about any aspect of the way you have been approached or treated during the course of this study, please contact - Dr Helen Allan, Reader in Nursing and Director of the Centre for Research in Nursing and Midwifery Education, Principal Investigator, Division of Health and Social Care, Faculty of Health and Medical Sciences, University of Surrey in the first instance. Email h.allan@surrey.ac.uk or telephone on 01483 689745.

Should you fail to be satisfied with the response that you receive, please contact – Professor Karen Bryan, Head of Division of Health and Social Care, Faculty of Health and Medical Sciences, University of Surrey. Email K.bryan@surrey.ac.uk or telephone on 01483 682507.

The University is indemnified under its third party insurance policies against claims by third parties for loss, damage or injury which can be shown to have arisen out of its activities and to be due to its negligence.

Would my taking part in this study be kept confidential?

You would be given a pseudonym for the research and only the researcher would have access to consent forms and to the computer records where your real name would be stored. All information which is collected about you during the course of research would be kept confidential, in accordance with the Data Protection Act 1998.

What would happen to the results of the study?

Anonymised findings will be used for a final report, academic papers and disseminated via user networks.

Who is this study funded by?

This study is funded by the General Nursing Council Chair of Nursing Education at the University of Surrey Trust.

Who has reviewed the study?

Yes - the study has been reviewed by the NHS Ethics Committee at Bromley and the University of Surrey Ethics Committee who have both given a favourable opinion.
