

Human Rights and Nursing Awards

The Human Rights and Nursing Award, which is run through the International Care Ethics Observatory (ICE) is presented to any nurse in recognition of an outstanding commitment to human rights and exemplifying the essence of nursing's philosophy of humanity, to further their work.

The International Care Ethics Observatory advisory panel review all nominations for the Human Rights Award annually.

Criteria for the Human Rights and Nursing Award

1. The contributions and accomplishments of the nominee must be of international significance to human rights.
2. The contributions of the nominee have influenced health care and/or nursing practice.

Nominations

Nominations can be made by anyone and at any time, with or without the knowledge of the nominee.

Two Awards are given each year.

Nominations should contain the following information:

- The name and contact details of the nominee
- The reasons for making the nomination, i.e. specific achievements in the field of human rights by the nominee
- Two supporting statements from friends or working colleagues of the nominee
- Name and contact details of the person making the nomination, and relationship to the nominee

The nominee will be contacted by a member of ICE in due course. The nominee will be expected to travel to the conference organised by ICE and held yearly in different locations. The travel and accommodation costs are covered by the Award. The nominees will also receive a personal cheque, the amount of which may vary.
