

8. CONSIDER ROAD SURFACE DUST

Despite less traffic and better atmospheric dispersion conditions during afternoon pick-up hours than during morning drop-off hours, concentrations of coarse particles can still be higher due to drier road surfaces in the afternoon, assisting the resuspension of road surface dust by road traffic. Overnight dew usually suppresses roadside resuspension during morning hours, and wetting road surfaces during dry periods in the daytime could effectively reduce resuspension of road dust.

GLOBAL CENTRE FOR CLEAN AIR RESEARCH

UNIVERSITY OF SURREY