Introduction and scope

1. For the purposes of this Code of practice academic governance can be defined as the structures, policies and processes that are in place to assure the setting and maintaining of academic standards and the quality of the student experience. This Code of practice sets out how the University’s academic governance works in relation to structure, function and operation. It is informed by the OfS Regulatory Framework (including the ongoing conditions of registration) and the Quality Assurance Agency Quality Code for Higher Education.

Academic governance - structure

2. Senate is the governing body of the University for all academic matters. It is supported by other committees and a sub-structure below that extends to Faculty and School/Department level. A diagram of the committee structure is shown on the following page:

Senate committees
- University Education Committee (UEC)
- University Research and Innovation Committee (URIC)
- Senate Progression and Conferment Executive (SPACE)

UEC Sub-committees
- Quality Enhancement Sub-committee
- Student Success Sub-committee

URIC Sub-committees
- Doctoral College Board
- Research Integrity and Governance Committee

Faculty committees
- Faculty Education Committees (FECs)
- Faculty Extraordinary Board of Studies
- Faculty Research Degrees Committees (FRDCs)

School/Department committees
- Boards of Studies
  - Boards of Examiners
  - Student/Staff Liaison Committees
- Postgraduate Research Student Engagement Fora

---

1 The Ethics Committee, the Academic Promotions Committee and the Honorary Degrees Committee also report to Senate but their operation is outside the scope of this Code of practice.
3. In addition to Senate and its sub-structure the Access and Participation Advisory Group has a dual management and academic governance function and has a dotted reporting line to UEC in respect of the latter. In management terms the Advisory Group reports to the Access and Participation Governance Panel.

Academic governance - function

4. The Charter is the overall instrument of governance of the University and sets the University's objects in the pursuit of learning and the advancement and dissemination of knowledge. The Statutes and Ordinances provide detailed information about the running of the University in terms of its governance. They present information on the roles and responsibilities of the officers of the University, including the Chancellor, the Vice-Chancellor and, also the core statutory bodies and committees.

5. The academic governance structure is responsible for the consideration and approval of academic-related strategies, Regulations, Codes of practice, policy statements and related information and committee terms of reference and membership. Strategies set out the high level approach to achieving a particular set of aims. Regulations provide the framework under which the academic activities of the University are carried out. They are structured into two areas: academic regulations which govern programmes of study, and student regulations which govern student behaviour and procedures for student complaints and appeals. Policy statements clarify the University's position on a particular matter, often prior to developing a Code of practice. Codes of practice set out policy and provide operational advice on how a particular process is carried out. Terms of reference and membership describe the activities of a committee, the limits of its authority and those who attend the committee in a particular capacity.

6. The following table sets out the levels of authority for the approval of the various types of documents.
Academic governance - operation

7. Senate’s mode of operation and membership are prescribed in the University Ordinances. Within its terms of reference Senate takes oversight of academic matters but delegates considerable responsibility for detailed consideration of policy issues and the management of quality assurance to its sub-committees.

8. The terms of reference and membership for academic governance committees are set out in the Appendices below. Students are represented on all levels of committees in the structure (with, the exception of those dealing with examination matters and research management and governance). Further information on student involvement in academic governance and quality assurance is given in the Code of practice for student engagement.

The role of Chair

9. For senior academic staff the chairing of University-level committees is an expectation of the role. It is normally the case that UEC and URIC are chaired by the relevant Pro-Vice-Chancellor or an Associate Dean, Education. In their role as chair they appoint the chairs of the committee’s sub-committees. The chairing of Faculty Education and Research Degrees Committees is a specification in the role descriptors for the Associate Dean, Education and the Associate Dean (Doctoral College) respectively. Staff who chair Boards of Examiners and Boards of Studies are provided with appropriate briefing by the University in support of those roles. In the absence of the Chair, a nominated Vice-Chair assumes the role of Chair.

2 Depending on the subject, documents are considered by either UEC or URIC/Doctoral College Board or all.

Guidance on the protocols for Student/Staff Liaison Committees, including template agendas and minutes

Purpose
Student/Staff Liaison Committees are informal meetings where students can raise matters of concern with staff and where staff can talk to students about their experiences.

Membership
It is important that students feel able to raise matters at the meetings and so the composition of the Committee should be such that staff do not greatly outnumber students. Consideration should be given to having a student chair the meeting. The membership of the Committee is deliberately flexible to allow for the different sizes of Schools/Departments. The Committee should decide which Professional Services staff should attend but bear in mind that such staff might also be attending Boards of Studies and so avoid duplication.

Frequency of meetings
It is recommended that there are four meetings a year, two per semester, the first to take place before the Board of Studies and the second after; this second meeting could be a virtual one to provide an update on matters considered at the Board of Studies. Dates for meetings should be set in advance at the beginning of the academic year and notified to all students (via SurreyLearn).

Raising of issues
Major issues of concern should not wait to be raised at the SSLC meeting but notified to the School/Department as they happen. Students should be asked for topics that need to be addressed ahead of the SSLC meeting so that an informed discussion and possible solutions can be considered at the meeting. This could also flag up whether particular professional services staff should be invited where an issue has arisen in their particular area. Consideration should be given as to whether a pre-meeting with the chair and the reps would be helpful in this respect.

Advance notification will filter out issues that are not within the remit of the School/Department to solve which should be escalated upwards within the Faculty and/or University by the SSLC Chair.

Conduct of meetings
Students and staff should approach the meetings in a constructive manner and be respectful of all views (in accordance with the spirit of the Student and Staff Partnership Manifesto). Students should be aware that it is not always possible to make the changes they request, and staff should report back to students the reasons why a particular change cannot be made. Those reps not able to attend the meeting should be able to send in comments either written to the chair or via another rep. In addition to discussing matters of concern, it is also important to identify areas of good practice for report to the Board of Studies and upwards to the Faculty.

Agendas and minutes
Agendas for the meeting can be produced by the student reps or a colleague from the School/Department. It is up to the School/Department how they want to arrange this and communicate the arrangements to all concerned. Agendas for meetings should be made available in advance of the meeting on SurreyLearn. A template for an agenda is given below; this covers the items that are expected to be covered, although not all of them might be relevant for all meetings. Schools/Departments are free to add additional items, although care should be taken not to duplicate matters that are discussed at Boards of Studies.
Student/Staff Liaison Committees do not require formal minutes, rather brief notes should be made. Individual students should not be identified. A template for meeting notes is given below.

Notes should ideally be produced within 10 days of the meeting, and once agreed by the Chair, published on SurreyLearn with a copy being sent to the Student Union. This helps the Union to take an overview of issues being raised by students across the University. It is important to ensure that the feedback loop is closed following an issue being raised. This might not need to wait until the notes of the meeting are available but could happen via a targeted newsletter or other quick effective way of communicating with students.
